

Welcome Packets

What is a welcome packet

- It is a packet of information to help your clients through the on boarding process
- Usually it will be linked into a welcome email so clients will receive it upon joining the program

What should be in the welcome packet

- The packet should contain information to help the clients navigate the program or have resources for them
- This may include apps the program utilizes, expectations, frequently asked questions & answers, resources , requirements for the program, info on checking in , example progress photos, supplements, referral program, resources.

Do you need one? & How important is it?

- The goal of a welcome packet is to make on boarding easier and reduce the amount of questions clients may have.
- It is not required. It's totally fine to not have one with your first couple of clients. But eventually, you will want a packet to make the process easier for both you and your clients.
- I recommend paying attention to what questions clients are frequently asking and adding them into your welcome packet overtime.
