

CAPTION GENERATOR

CAPTION GENERATOR

- Now that we have your content idea ready to go, its time to turn it into a fullblown post
- We want to capture the attention of your audience as they are scrolling past
- When people are on social media, they have a short attention span. We need to activate their RAS and draw them in (aka thumb stopper)

CAPTURE ATTENTION

CAPTION GENERATOR

- To do this there are 2 important pieces that capture people's attention: the headline and the creative (photo/or video)
- Having a good headline with a good creative will make the difference of someone scrolling past or stopping in their tracks to consume

CAPTION GENERATOR

- A good headline peaks curiosity and draws your ideal client in to read more by relating to what they desire and revealing valuable insight
- Examples of good headlines you can use are listed in the Content Creation Homework PDF download below this video

CAPTION GENERATOR

- You creative needs to be of good quality (doesnt need to be great, but good)
- Any recent iphone camera works great
- Photos should be of you, or you doing something
- Dont just post a picture of broccoli, post a picture of you with broccoli
- People follow you for you, its a social platform

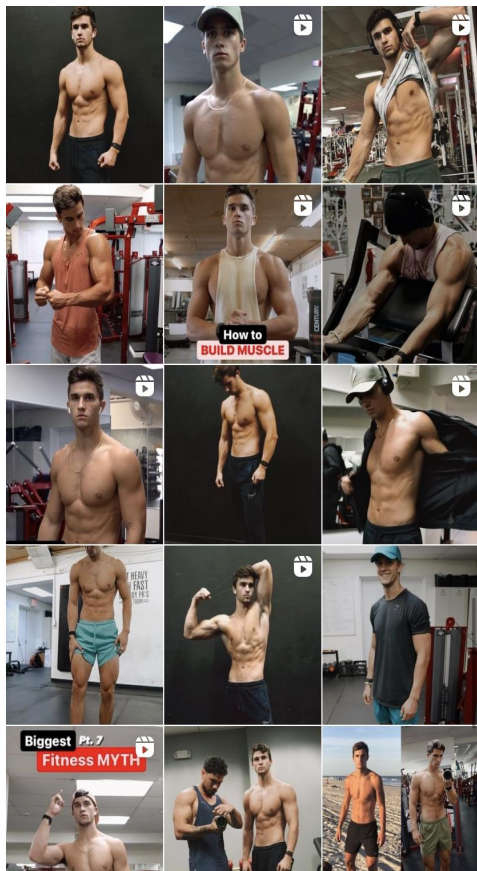

CAPTION GENERATOR

- Lighting must be good in the photo. Lighting showing your face well lit. Try to avoid being backlit
- You want your audience to quickly identify its you. Dont make them work to figure out whats happening in the photo

- Smiling adds points, people are attracted to happy faces
- Here are some examples of good feeds vs poor feeds

POOR

CAPTION GENERATOR

- As much as I would like to say people don't judge by appearances, it makes a big difference standing out online
- The professionalism and quality in your posts make a good first impression and will portray value in your offer
- Who would you rather trust to invest into?

CAPTION GENERATOR

- 90% of quality will come from lighting and angles
- Though if you are interesting in upgrading camera equipment Sony Camera's models A5100-A6500 are great starting cameras
- Sony Lenses 35mm f1.8 will give you a crisp focus on subject with a blurred out background
- Start with your iphone, upgrade down the road

A.I.D.A MARKETING

CAPTION GENERATOR

- A.I.D.A is an acronym in marketing that's short for Attention, Interest, Desire, Action.
- It is the 4 steps you need to take in each caption that you right to position you as the authority, add value, and attract leads towards you

- Attention: Draw people into your content through your headline and creative
- Interest: Peak their curiosity by appealing to their goals and challenges
- Desire: Show them what they could have by turning their fantasy into a reality
- Action: Inspire them to take action

CAPTION GENERATOR

- We've broken down your captions into an 8 step checklist to ensure you nail A.I.D.A with every post
- This 8 step checklist can also be found in the Content Creation Homework PDF down below

CAPTION GENERATOR

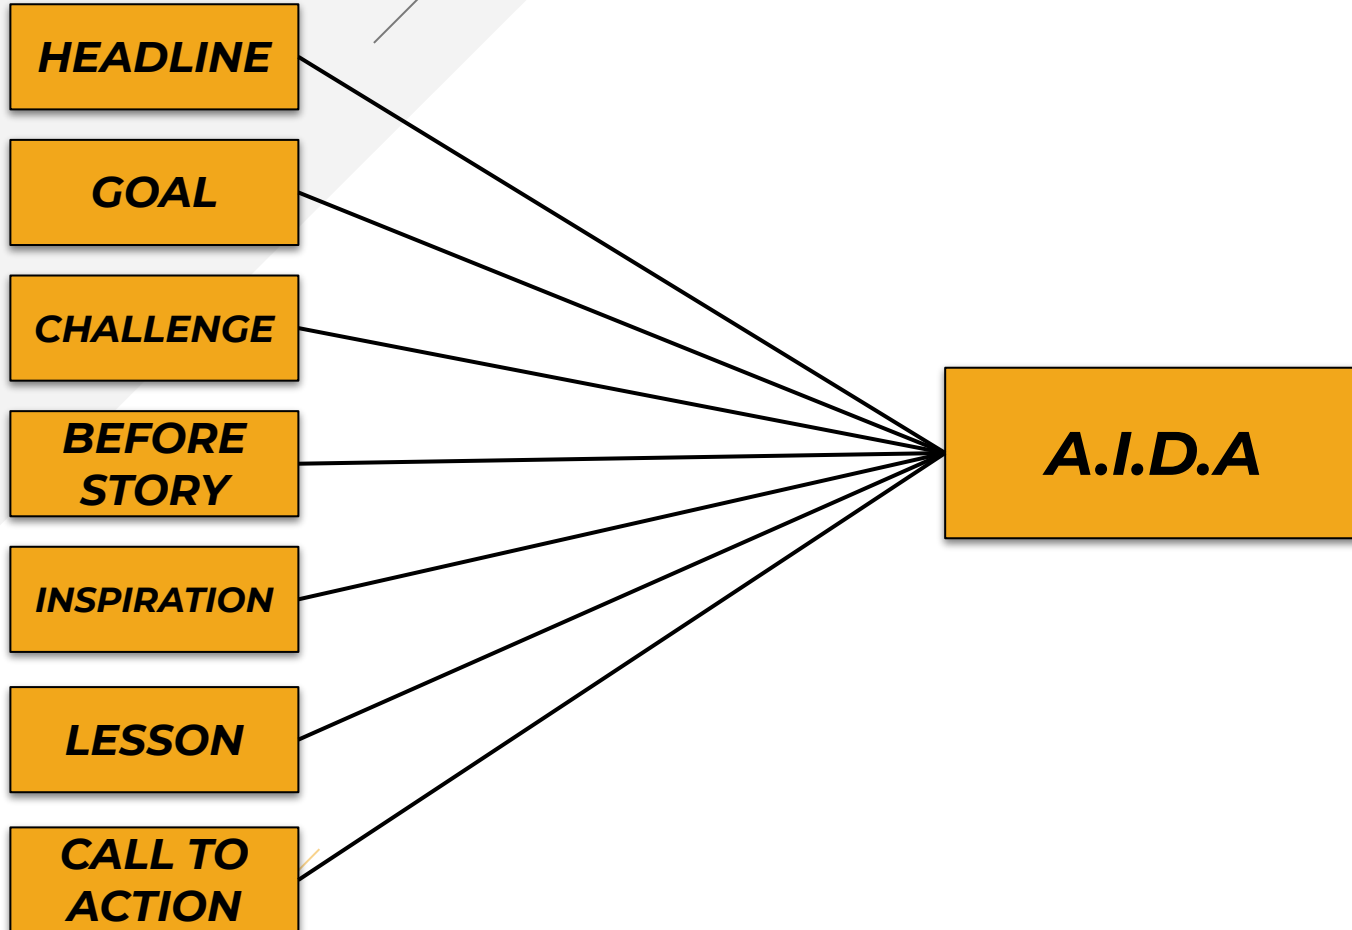

- Once you have your topic for your post use the 8 step checklist to help you formulate your captions
- Captions in the beginning might not be perfect, but thats okay. The goal here is to improve over time.
- Let's walk you through the 8-step checklist

CAPTION GENERATOR

- Step 1: Headline - use a headline that captures your ideal clients attention
- Step 2: Goal - State your ideal clients goal
- Step 3: Challenge - State your ideal clients challenge
- Step 4: Tell your (or clients) before story

CAPTION GENERATOR

- Step 5: Tell the moment of inspiration
- Step 6: Share the transformation and after story
- Step 7: Share valuable learning lessons
- Step 8: Make a call to action

CAPTION GENERATOR

- This format can be used for scripting your captions and your videos
- Take use this as a guideline, not a roadmap
- You dont need to have every single step in here, you can mismatch them, you can also use them out of order
- Here are some examples of written captions

givemhealth Exercise or Nutrition?

Both are important but one massively impacts the other when done correctly.

Proper nutrition supports:

- ✓ energy; food is fuel
- ✓ muscle repair, recovery, growth
- ✓ chemical processes, metabolism
- ✓ mood, hormones, mental health
- ✓ bone strength, support, density

The reason most people fail at weight loss or muscle gain is because they do not prioritize their nutrition. Or they don't give their body enough time to adjust to their eating habits to know if it's working well for them.

Simple tips if you're trying to improve nutrition:

- ✓ eat consistently, don't skip meals
- ✓ prioritize protein
- ✓ carbs = main source of energy
- ✓ fats = joint/brain/hormone function
- ✓ drink lots of water
- ✓ fruits/veggies = good digestion and vitamins/minerals
- ✓ pre workout snack = we want fats & carbs
- ✓ post workout snack = we want protein & carbs

If you'd like to discuss a customized plan for yourself, apply for 1:1 coaching in my bio and let's see if there's room for improvement!

givemhealth Food freedom

Something I've realized over time: my body thrives with 2000+ calories.

I'm leaner, stronger, happier, more toned, more energized, and more motivated

Our bodies are extremely adaptable, and by slowly eating more over time you will start to understand what I mean.

Tips for anyone nervous about introducing more food to their routine:

1. Prioritize protein
2. Maintain a consistent exercise routine
3. * by that I mean don't increase cardio as you increase food *
4. Introduce 100-200 calories at a time and give yourself a week or two to see how you feel before making any further moves
5. Pay attention to your hunger cues. When you're tired, low energy, irritated it might be because you need to eat more!
6. Drink lots of water
7. Understand that it's normal to fluctuate in weight. Pay less attention to the scale and more to the way you feel.

Be nice to yourself. If you struggle with food, come talk to me 🍷

givemhealth Learning to FUEL your body

It's important to recognize that within today's "norm" dieting has become a bit restrictive. Overtime, as we take part in these, we start to forget how to recognize the cues our body shares with us to let us know it's hungry.

Hunger cues:

- 🐼 stomach growling
- 😓 low - no energy
- 🤯 shakiness
- 😡 irritability
- 🤕 headaches
- 🧠 trouble focusing

✅ It's a fact that you need to eat in a caloric deficit to lose weight. But a lot of people chronically under eat to begin with, so eliminating foods from that point will only yield diminishing returns.

🦋 Our metabolism is extremely adaptable. When underfed consistently, it slows down and when fed enough consistently, it speeds up. Of course it's not THAT simple - hormones, sleep, activity changes, etc play a huge role in this as well.

🦋 Because we're ever changing, it is SO important to be able to recognize when we do need to fuel our body so that we can go about our days with energy and stamina to be successful

Remember that naturally we are able to recognize when we're tired 🛌 and when we are thirsty 💧 so why shouldn't we be able to understand when we need food 🍽️ too?!

If you're struggling to get that balance back into your life I got you. Apply for 1:1 coaching and as spots open up I will reach out to you ✅

givemhealth Feeling good & being active 🦋

I grew up playing volleyball and loved it. Two years ago I refused to opt in to a beach volleyball game with my family on vacation because I didn't feel confident in my swimsuit and I didn't have the energy for it. That sucked.

Fitness goes beyond aesthetics. It's a total physical and mental lifestyle change that happens when you decide to take care of yourself. I feel more energized and confident than I ever have.

If you struggle with your energy levels, want to feel confident in a swimsuit, and you don't want to accept that your age determines your athletic abilities then come talk to me. Apply for 1:1 coaching using the link on my page 🦋

givemhealth Hey ladies, if you're thinking about getting into fitness and you need a coach to hold you accountable, THIS IS YOUR SIGN TO DO IT - Reach out to me and join the GIVEMHEALTH community 🔥

✨ Swipe ✨ —> to see my first progress pic and the most unhappy I've ever been with my health (Feb 2020).

Not a whole lot wrong with where I was physically BUT I was not in control AT ALL and I felt it internally.

AT THAT TIME:

- I exercised inconsistently but far too often
- focused on cardio not weight training
- wasn't eating enough to sustain muscle or even lose weight
- limited the foods I liked thinking they were "bad"
- I stressed about balance with my social life on the weekends

NOW:

- consistently exercising and taking proper rest days
- focusing on resistance training and progressive overload
- eating MORE to build up a healthy metabolism, brain, and hormone function
- eating the foods I like because I want to
- I'm overall more fun to be around because I'm happier so I enjoy my weekends completely

✨ I feel great ✨ If you want to feel great too, LETS TALK. I may be the coach for you!

One of my favorite parts of being a fitness coach is seeing the changes my clients go through both physically and mentally.

Often, my clients join my program because they want to transform their bodies and live a better life.

I can literally see their growth daily as their confidence begins to rise.

The same client who came to me because they felt lost and unhappy with themselves, turns into this completely different person.

Now they have more energy, they are focused on building great habits and they radiate positivity.

The same clients who struggled getting through the warm ups are now crushing the entire workout and even adding more.

All of this came from the fact that they wanted to transform their bodies.

The desire to lose 15-20lbs sparked a journey that has now led to them living life as a completely different person.

Every time I see this happen I think of two things.

1. How proud I am of my client
2. How I wish more people experienced the growth my clients went through.

Fitness isn't just about looking good, it's more about feeling great.

Take my word on one thing...if you transform your body you WILL transform your life.

_crystalbueno Stop comparing yourself to others.

If comparing is how you evaluate your worth, you will always be losing.

In this game of life you will never reach a point where you are better than others in every way and why would you want to be.

Instead of focusing on comparing yourself to others, compare yourself to YOURSELF.

No one is going through the same struggles as you are.

Instead of trying to be as good as or better than others, focus your energy on being the very best version of yourself.

Become 1% better every single day.

1:1 coaching available in my bio

_crystalbueno Fake it til you make it.

Seriously.

Don't I just like someone's post about being confident, fearless or powerful.

YOU go out there and be the most confident, fearless, and powerful woman out there!

I know it may be hard at first because you don't believe it yet, but start by saying some kind words to yourself.

Try these affirmations:

I am confident.

I am fearless.

I am powerful.

I am capable.

I believe in myself.

I am worthy of my success.

I love who I see in the mirror.

I am HER.

Say these words of affirmation to yourself every morning or every time you feel down.

It's truly all about your MINDSET.

Change your mindset and watch your life ✨ transform ✨
