

HOW TO FOLLOW UP

FOLLOW UP

- When reaching out to potential clients on social media and in real life, you are going to have to implement a consistent follow up strategy
- Follow ups are an easy way for you to build your pipeline of potential clients, nurture long term relationships, and close clients long term

FOLLOW UP

- In this lesson we are going to cover what follow ups are, the psychology behind follow ups, how to follow up, and what your daily workflow should look like for follow up lead generation

WHAT IS FOLLOW UP

FOLLOW UP

- Follow up is simply re-engaging with potential clients to either complete an unfinished conversation, or start a new conversation
- One thing you have to understand, is that follow up is not pushy or salesy
- You have to think of it as building a long term relationship with the prospect

FOLLOW UP

- Often times, people will get busy, distraction, or forget to respond
- Follow up allows you to stay on top of your leads and show them that you care to engage
- Surprisingly, most people appreciate a good follow up

FOLLOW UP

- Imagine you are talking to 2 different doctors about your symptoms online...
- If you share the same information with both doctors, and the next day one doctor follows up and the other doctor doesn't, you are likely going to be turned off by the doctor that you didn't hear from

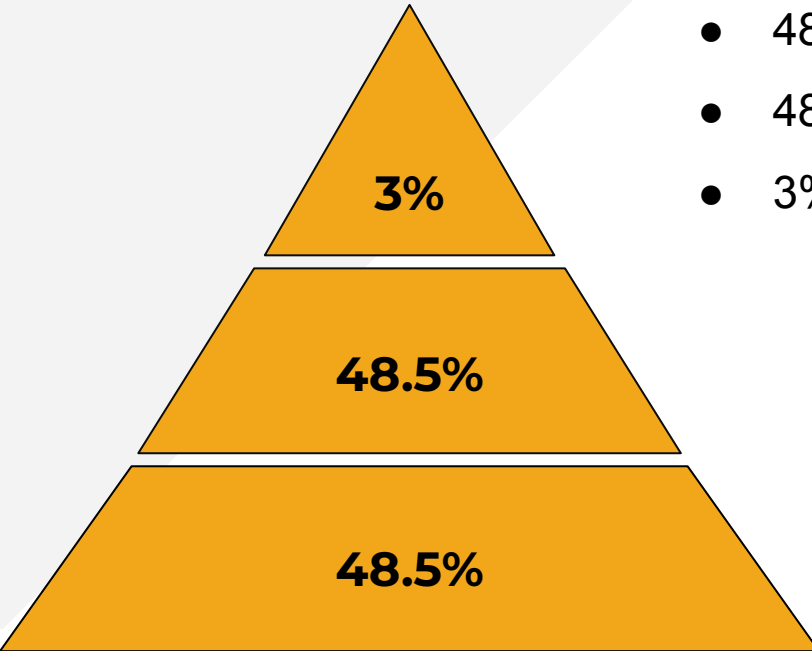

FOLLOW UP

- The doctor that follows up with you the next day to see how you're doing is likely going to win your business as it shows you that they care about you in the follow up
- The follow up holds the same importance in generating leads for your fitness business
- Understand that follow up is not annoying, and is essential for success

FOLLOW UP

- The reason why its essential to do follow up is because most people will not be ready to buy or become a client
- Especially on the first interaction
- AND especially if you are just starting as a fitness coach

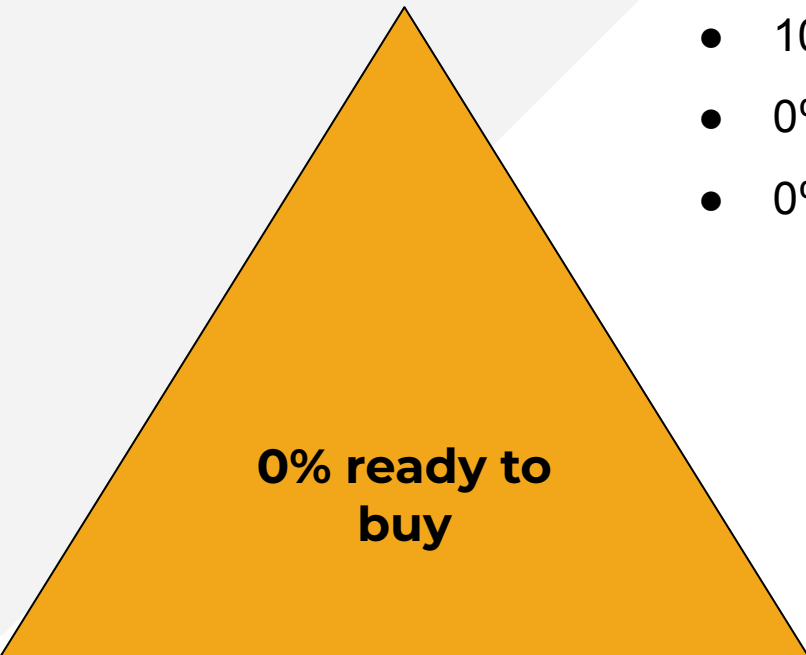

AUDIENCE READINESS

- 48.5% are aware that you exist
- 48.5% acknowledge the value you provide
- 3% are ready to buy

AUDIENCE READINESS

- 100% know you exist
- 0% acknowledge the value you provide
- 0% are ready to buy

0% ready to buy

FOLLOW UP

- What this means is that the likelihood of a prospect being ready to hop on a call on your first interaction is low
- Do not be discouraged if people are unresponsive
- All it takes is a little bit of follow up and long term nurture

FOLLOW UP

- 70-80% of the clients that you sign will come from next day follow up, next week followup, next month follow up, or even next year follow up
- Point is, leads need to be nurtured over time before they become clients
- Having 1 conversation with them and never talking to them again will not convert them

HOW TO FOLLOW UP

FOLLOW UP

- There's really only 3 areas where a prospect could be during a follow up
- 1) before offering a call
- 2) after offering a call
- 3) after taking a call

FOLLOW UP

- Before offering a call would be any time before you ask them to hop on a call
- This could if they ghost you mid conversation before offering a call
- Or if they never opened / responded to your first message

FOLLOW UP

- After offering a call would be before the call is booked, but after you propose hopping on a call, or after the call is booked
- This would be someone who ghosted you either right after you offered a call, or when providing info for call booking
- This could also be when the call is booked but the prospect ghosts before the call

FOLLOW UP

- After taking a call would be the scenario following up with a prospect who you've already spoken to on the phone
- This could be on the discovery or the sales call
- They could be disqualified and followed up with at a later date, or needs a follow up for a decision

FOLLOW UP

- When following up with potential clients you want to follow the 7-4-12 framework
- Follow up every day for the first 7 days
- Follow up every week for the next 4 weeks
- Follow up every month until you or the prospect dies

FOLLOW UP

- When a prospect is brand new or is a real hot lead, follow up with the prospect once a day for a week
- If they don't respond, lower the frequency down to once a week for a month
- If they don't respond lower the frequency down to once a month

FOLLOW UP

- But dont ever stop reaching out to potential clients who could be good fits
- When following up with your leads you also dont want to be super annoying by asking them the same question everyday “Just following up” etc.
- Keep it fun, entertaining, and give them a reason to respond

FOLLOW UP

- Examples of a good follow up could be reaching out with free resources, or sending gifs, or sending them a piece of content that they would like
- Follow up should not be annoying, it's building a relationship long term, so keep it fun

FOLLOW UP

- When following up with prospects who have not responded to your opening message, all you will want to do is try a different approach
- Respond to their story
- Send them their post with something you like about it
- Send them a piece of content you think they would like or a free resource

FOLLOW UP

- The goal here with following up with a lead that hasnt responded to your opening message is to start the conversation, not pitch them, so try to find some common ground that will elicit a response
- If they dont respond after 7 days and they are good fits, move them into the monthly follow up cycle

FOLLOW UP

- For leads that have responded but ghosted mid conversation before call booking:
- “Let me know if my last message went through!”
- “Funny GIF”
- Whatsup ____, hows your week been going so far?”
- “Funny GIF”
- I know life gets busy sometimes, would love to hear back from you!”

FOLLOW UP

- The idea behind following up with leads that have ghosted mid conversation is to reach out and re-engage in conversation
- If its a recent follow up, you can get them to continue the previous conversation
- If its an old follow up, you'll need to start a brand new conversation

FOLLOW UP

- After you propose a call:
- “Whatsup ____, would love to hear back when you get the chance!”
- “Funny GIF”
- “Hey ____, still with me?”
- “Funny GIF”
- “Dont mean to overstep any boundaries...is this something you still want to do?”
- “Where should we go from here?”

FOLLOW UP

- After someone had a call:
- “Whatsup ____, how are you feeling after our call?”
- “Whatsup ____, would love to hear back when you get the chance!”
- “Hey ____, still with me?”
- “Dont mean to overstep any boundaries...is this something you still want to do?”
- “Where should we go from here?”

FOLLOW UP

- Important to note:
- When a prospect hasnt engaged, you will want to follow up by initiating the conversation
- When a prospect conversation has died, you will want to follow up by starting a new conversation and restarting the flow

WHEN TO FOLLOW UP

FOLLOW UP

- Your daily workflow with lead generation should look like this:
- Call reminders
- Clear message inbox
- Follow up with leads that didnt book call
- Follow up with leads that no showed booked call
- Follow up with quality warm / hot leads
- Message outbound

FOLLOW UP

- The emphasis with your daily workflow is on the follow ups
- With instagram you can only send 15-20 new outbound messages per hour and about 50-90 per day
- What counts as outbound is a brand new message to someone whos never previously had a conversation with you

FOLLOW UP

- However with follow ups, you can send up to 100-200 message per day
- Any conversation that has had a previous message (even an outbound message that hasnt been responded to) counts as a follow up
- So you can dramatically increase the amount of conversations youre having by implementing follow ups

FOLLOW UP

- You should strive for 50-90 new outbound messages per day with 100-200 follow up messages per day
- Obviously if you don't hit those numbers because you are having conversations to book calls that is okay. Responding prospects always take priority
